

*One day I discovered that my mum also wrote her name in other people's hearts.
That made me feel happy. I am not alone.*

Create your Own Quiz

Sammy's uncle participates in quizzes, general knowledge competitions, that are organised in schools, pubs and clubs. He loves taking part in them and one day it occurred to him to ask Sammy if he would like to organise a quiz for his mother's anniversary.

That day the whole family gathered in the afternoon for a cup of tea (and some cake!), and Sammy and his uncle read out a list of questions about Sammy's mum to everyone present. There were a few tears because everyone misses Sammy's mum so much, and also a lot of smiles, especially when they remembered funny stories or argued about what her favourite brand of perfume or TV programme was.

The winner of the quiz was given a special treat. Everyone congratulated Sammy for the good questions that he put together and the lovely time they had remembering his mother.

*How would you feel about organising a similar quiz for your family? What questions would you include?
(* The "Journalist" activity includes several questions that can help you.)*
